AT&T Partner with TotalMobile USA, to offer their Mobile Solution throughout the US

AT&T and TotalMobile today announced a new partnership to provide mobile solutions, designed to liberate government field employees throughout the USA. TotalMobile, owned and developed by Northern Ireland based TotalMobile Solutions Ltd., a subsidiary of Consilium Technologies, offers government employees the ability to bring the office into the field, on a single mobile device. The solution integrates with existing government systems and databases, enabling field employees to complete their work and share information in real-time, allowing for faster decision making, therefore saving both time and money, as well as improving customer service and strengthening compliance.

AT&T is one of the world's leading communication organizations, with reported annual consolidated revenue of $123 billion. After a rigorous assessment of mobile systems AT&T chose to partner with TotalMobile. "This solution ties into AT&T's commitment to delivering innovative products and services to meet the unique needs of government agencies." Said Michael Antieri, President, Advanced Enterprise Mobility Solutions, AT&T Business Solutions.

TotalMobile has a range of projects underway across the US, including; a transport inspectional system, a mobile solution for flu clinics and a traffic control system to name a few. This is the latest endorsement of the strength of TotalMobile and the major benefits it can bring to Government.

The partnership with AT&T is seen as an exciting move for a UK based company such as TotalMobile, who will now be involved in the USA Government mobile working market, estimated to be worth over $3.6 billion in 2010. Colin Reid, CEO of TotalMobile stated, "We are really excited about this strategic partnership with AT&T. They have 28% of the mobile market in the US and are particularly strong in Government. This gives us access to over 500 sales staff at all levels of Government. We are off to a strong start with over $500,000 of business and an excellent pipeline of prospects. On the back of this we have already created 10 new jobs and opened an office in Boston."
